CERTIFICATE COURSE IN THE FOUR GOSPELS

UNIT 17: COURSE COMPLETION

Congratulations! If you have worked through the previous sixteen units of this course, you have doubtless spent a good deal of time and effort completing the units and Bible and textbook readings, as well as the review exercises. Some of the units were necessarily detailed and involved a good deal of concentrated study, but we believe that if you got to this point and have done your part, your knowledge of the four gospels will have been significantly deepened and enriched. Hopefully the “Concepts and Applications” sections will also have encouraged you to develop the habit of looking for and following up with the practical application of many of the principles you have studied along the way.

Another major goal of this course has been to assist you, the student, to come to a broader understanding of some of the issues covered in the course units that may be interpreted differently by various branches of Christianity. The goal here is not to compromise your own understanding of the issues or that of your denomination or background, but to help you better see why in some cases other Christians might view the same material in different ways, and to help foster a sense of oneness and fellowship with sincere believers everywhere, despite minor differences in understanding.

Above all, we hope that this course has helped inspire in you a greater interest in the word of God and to realize that there are always new things to be learned and insights to be gained from it – no matter how many times we may have read a given biblical book, chapter, or verse.

With this in mind we urge you to utilize the form on the “Contact” page of the CornerstoneCourses.org website to sign up for email announcements of our new courses as they are produced, as well as other new books for further background reading in biblical studies. All these materials will be offered without charge, and you can rest assured that your name and email address will never be sold, shared, or used for any other purposes than to let you know of more free study and reading opportunities from our ministry.
